

Evolution of galaxy cluster scaling and structural properties from XMM observations: probing the physics of structure formation

S.Anokhin(1), M.Arnaud(1)

(1) CEA/DSM/DAPNIA, Service d'Astrophysique, L'Orme des Merisiers, Bat. 709, 91191 Gif-sur-Yvette, France.

We will present a study of two low luminosity distant clusters of galaxies ( $z=0.4-0.5$ ) observed with XMM-Newton. Their properties will be compared to that of massive distant clusters those of nearby clusters similar mass. This will be discussed in the framework of the self-similarity model of cluster formation.