

COST action 724: scientific, technical and forecast aspects of the European space weather service

F. Jansen (1), J. Lilensten (2)

(1) University of Greifswald, Germany, (2) CNRS/LPG, France

COST action 724 coordinates European research for modelling and prediction of space weather. It started two years ago and is now fully operational. More than 28 European countries and institutions are involved in this space weather action. This talk will describe the objectives, aims and status of this European space weather action.