

Freak runup of irregular waves

I. Didenkulova (1,2), A. Kurkin (1), E. Pelinovsky (2) and A. Sergeeva (2)

(1) State Technical University, Nizhny Novgorod, Russia, (2) Institute of Applied Physics, Russian Academy of Sciences, Nizhny Novgorod, Russia (Contact Email: dii@hydro.appl.sci-nnov.ru)

A few data of freak waves on the coasts are presented. The distribution functions of runup characteristics are computed within the theory of nonbreaking long wave runup. An incident wave represents an irregular sea state with given modeled (Gaussian) or observed spectrum. The asymptotic of probability functions in the range of large amplitudes for estimation of freak wave formation in the shore is studied.