In France, "Cafés" are famous for they enable people to meet at anytime during the day. Recently one has seen the development of a great diversity of thematic meetings in Cafés, giving birth for example, to "history Café", "Science Café", "Citizen Café", "Environment Café", etc ... By the way of "Environment Café", there is a precious opportunity for a soil scientist to meet a large audience, to have an exchange about Soil, and to face the citizen diversity and its needs. Then the information acquires the capacity of spreading rapidly via pertinent nets already existing, and therefore the potentiality for action seems no longer out of reach
