

Geophysical Research Abstracts,
Vol. 10, EGU2008-A-06582, 2008
SRef-ID: 1607-7962/gra/EGU2008-A-06582
EGU General Assembly 2008
© Author(s) 2008

Second shadow function: interference on terminator in ionosphere

V.Choliy (1)

(1) Kiev Schevchenko University, Kiev, Ukraine (charlie@mail.univ.kiev.ua)

There are some evidences found that GPS signal moving through ionosphere may interfere not only with ionosphere irregularities. Wave-like structures in TEC series were detected when terminator is in ionosphere heights and the GPS wave is moved through. The effect is quite strong for the polar GPS observing sites and mostly absent in middle-latitude or equatorial stations.